Dear Ms. Norton:

Reference is made to the agreement between you and Harcourt Brace Jovanovich, Inc. dated July 17, 1952 (herein the "Agreement") concerning your book AT SWORD'S POINT (herein the "Work").

Upon our receipt of a copy hereof signed by you, the Agreement will terminate without further liability or obligation between the parties in accordance with Paragraph XII of the Agreement and subject to this letter.

Upon termination all rights granted to us will revert to you subject to licenses previously granted, if any, including any extensions or renewals thereof. We retain the right to collect and share in the proceeds of such licenses. We also retain the right to dispose of any copies of the Work previously printed, subject to our royalty obligations. The warranties and indemnities provided to us in Paragraph II of the Agreement survive this termination.

All rights to physically reproduce the Harcourt Brace Jovanovich, Inc. edition remain our property and permission for such reproduction must be negotiated with us.

Please sign where indicated below to confirm your acceptance of the foregoing and return one copy of this letter to us for our records.

Sincerely yours,

HARCOURT BRACE JOVANOVICH, INC.
